The NSCA and NSSA is offering a FREE staff training course for the first 20 Clubs (NSSA and NSCA) that volunteer to host one the association's newest course offerings: The Club Range Safety Officer Certification Course ("CRSO Course").

This one-time opportunity is being offered and fully funded by the NSSA and NSCA to promote the launch of the new Club Range Safety Officer Certification Course ("CRSO Course"). The purpose of the new eight-hour $175 course is to train and certify club staff and volunteers to serve as referees and safety personnel and to serve as ambassadors for our sport when first-time shooters visit host clubs.

To promote the new course and help member clubs enhance staff training, the association is waiving the $175 fee for attendees and funding up to 100 scholarships (10 per club) to the first 20 clubs to host and organize one of the inaugural courses. The course will be taught by active NSSA/NSCA Level 2 and Level 3 certified instructors as approved by the appropriate Chief Instructor. This offer is for a limited time only. In addition to selecting clubs on a first-come-first-serve basis, NSSA/NSCA reserves the right to select clubs based on the number of registered shoots held in the previous 12 months and on geographical distribution to insure equitable distribution of initial courses throughout the US.

In order to be eligible for this special offer, host a funded course and offer the above-mentioned scholarships, a club must:

- 1) Complete and sign and submit Page 1 of this application to Glynne Moseley.
- 2) Be selected / have application approved by NSSA / NSCA.
- 3) Recruit and guarantee attendance of an absolute minimum of 10 (ten) candidates.
- 4) Submit the names of the 10 candidates on the class roster form (supplied after acceptance) a minimum of 10 days prior to the course date.
- 5) Cooperate and coordinate with the designated certifying instructor (Level II or Level III).
- 6) Provide up to 300 targets and 300 shells (at no charge) for use during the course.

The staff of NSSA/NSCA is excited to offer this new course and look forward to increasing the number of qualified referees and safety personnel at our member clubs.
